ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY

THURSDAY DECEMBER 25, 1902.

Dr. Hamilton Forline, formerly professor in the Northwestern university, who resigned to make experiments restoring life in cases of suspended animation today announced his success. He claims that he has discovered a process of practically restoring life to human beings technically dead. He inserts a hollow needle into the spinal column and drains out the effete fluid which is the first cause of death. Then another fluid made of living cells from animals is injected acting as an elixir of life. He has notified the Journal and American society of animal therapeutics that he is ready to demonstrate his theory. He will ask permission to experiment on paupers and criminals. He names two assistants as witnesses of the fact that he has restored life to a dead cat previously strangled and to a goat that had been poisoned.

Prestige and Good Will.

Selling goods is not the only purpose of advertising. The secondary purpose says the Medical and Drug Advertiser is the building up of prestige. In some cases the actual sales are secondary. If the prestige created by advertising is the right sort there is little need to worry about sales. Some advertisers use space merely to build up the firm name, letting the sales take care of themselves. These firms are usually very jealous of their good name. They never draw upon it but keep it as a sort of reserve capital that pays interest. To realize upon this prestige by selling inferior goods is to draw upon it heavily, if not to kill it. Some enterprises are so well capitalized with popular approval that they run years after the prestige has been drawn upon. It is said of an old remedy that it was so well founded that it ran ten years after everyone connected with it who had brains was dead. This is the kind of prestige that advertising will create when it is properly used, and the kind that makes it the most profitable.

Looking For Boys.

The London Free Press strikes the nail on the head in the following: "When we see the boys on the streets and public places we often wonder if they know that the business men are watching them. In every bank, store or office there will soon be a place for a boy to fill. Those who have the management of the affairs of the business will select a boy in whom they have confidence. When they select one of the boys they will not select him for his ability to use slang, swear, smoke cigarettes, or tap a beer keg. These men have a few of these habits themselves, but they are looking for boys who are as near gentlemen in every sense of the word as they can, and they are able to give the character of every boy in the city. They are not looking for rowdies and when a boy applies for one of these places and is refused they may not tell him the reason why they do not want him, but the boy can depend upon it he has been rated according to his behavior. Boys can not afford to adopt the habits and conversation of loafers and rowdies if ever they want to be called to responsible positions.

New Stock Law.

Representative J. A. Burleigh, at the request of a great many stock men and homestead settlers throughout the county, has prepared a following bill to be introduced in the coming session of the legislature. Burleigh thinks that this measure will cover the case and do justice to all parties concerned.

AN ACT.

To regulate the herding and grazing of stock upon the ranges of this state and to provide a penalty for violations hereof.

Be it enacted by the people of the state of Oregon;

SECTION 1.—That it shall be unlawful for any person owning or having charge of any sheep to herd the same or permit them to be herded on the lands or possessing claims of other persons, or to herd the same or permit them to graze upon unappropriated land within one mile of the dwelling house of the owner or owners of such land or possessing claim, or within one half mile of the boundary line of such land or possessing claim.

SECTION 2.—That the owner or agent of such owner of sheep violating the provisions of the preceding section, on complaint of the party or parties injured before any Justice of the Peace for the precinct where either of the interested parties may reside, is liable to the injured for all damages sustained; and if the trespass is repeated, is liable to the party injured for the second and every subsequent offense in double the amount of damages sustained.

SECTION 3.—That when the owner or agent of such owner of sheep found trespassing upon the land or possessory claims of another, or within one mile of the dwelling of the claimant or occupant of such possessory claim, or within one-half mile of the boundary line thereof, is unknown to the party injured by such trespass, all sheep so trespassing may be treated as estrays.

SECTION 4.—That it shall be unlawful for any person not a resident of this state owning or having charge of sheep, cattle or horses to herd them, or permit them to be herded, or permit them to graze upon any of the unoccupied lands within this state without first obtaining from the county clerk of the county in which it is proposed to herd or graze such stock, a permit to herd or graze such stock.

SECTION 5.—That it shall be unlawful for any person who is a resident of this state owning or having charge of any sheep, cattle or horses, to herd them, or permit them to be herded, or permit them to graze upon any of the unoccupied lands of this state, except upon unoccupied lands lying within the county in which the owner of such stock resides, without first obtaining from the county clerk of the county in which it is proposed to herd or graze such stock a permit to herd or graze such stock within that county.

SECTION 6.—That the permit required by this act shall be issued by the County Clerks of the various counties of this state when the party desiring such permit shall present to such county clerk his sworn statement of the kind and number of such stock intended to be ranged or herded in such county together with a certificate from the stock inspector from any county in this state showing that such stock has been examined by said inspector, within three months of the date of application, of such permit, and that such stock is free from all infectious and contagious diseases, and by paying the fee required by this act.

SECTION 7.—That each applicant for a permit as required by this act shall pay to the clerk issuing the same the following fee, to-wit: For sheep 20 cents per head for each and every head permitted; for horses and cattle $1.00 per head for each and every head permitted.

And such permit shall specify the amount paid therefore and the number and kind of stock permitted thereby, and no permit shall be granted for a longer time than the 31st day of December following the date thereof.

SECTION 8.—That the county clerks of the several counties of this state shall keep a record in which they shall enter at the time any permit that is issued, the name and post office address of the person to whom it is issued, the number and kind of stock permitted thereby, and the amount received therefor. Each clerk shall pay over to the county treasurer at the end of each month the amount of fees received during the month for such permits, taking his receipt therefor in duplicate.

SECTION 9.—That any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in a sum not less than $250 nor more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three months nor more than one year.

SECTION 10.—That any sheep, cattle or horses found running at large in any county of this state in which the owner does not reside and no permit has been issued therefore such stock shall be treated as estrays, and it is made the duty of the stock inspector of such county to take up, advertise and sell such stock in the manner provided by the law for the sale of estrays.

PULLMAN ORDINARY SLEEPERS.

The tourist travel between the East and the Pacific Coast has reached enormous proportions in the last few years, and calls for a special class of equipment. To meet this demand the Pullman Company has issued from its shops what it technically calls the "Pullman Ordinary Sleeper." These cars appear similar to the regular sleepers being built on the same plan, but not furnished with the same elegance. They are equipped with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, pillow-cases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for making tea and coffee and doing "light housekeeping," and each section can be fitted with an adjustable table. A uniformed porter accompanies each car, his business being to make up berths, keep the car clean, and look after the wants and comforts of the passenger. In each of the trains which are dispatched daily from Portland by the O. R. & N. Co. is to be found one of these "Pullman Ordinary Sleepers." The car attached to the "Chicago-Portland Special" goes through to Chicago without change, and the one in the "Atlantic Express" runs to Kansas City without change. Passengers in this car for Chicago change to a similar car at Granger. Much of the first class travel is being carried in these cars, the rates being lower, and the service nearly equal to that in the palace sleepers.
